

The Cooper River Bridge Run Drug Policy

The Cooper River Bridge run abides by a strict zero-tolerance drug policy. Athletes, coaches, and agents using or supplying performance enhancing drugs will be prohibited from participating in the Cooper River Bridge Run. Substances considered performance enhancing drugs will be determined by the WADA Prohibited List (<http://list.wada-ama.org/>). Athletes must abide by the drug policy outlined below. In addition, any athlete who is caught using performance enhancing drugs at the Cooper River Bridge Run agrees to return any prize money and any contract regarding complimentary entry, food, lodging, transportation, or travel assistance will be terminated.

To be eligible for entry or prize money, an athlete must:

- Not test positive for any performance enhancing drug at the Cooper River Bridge Run
- Not be currently serving a suspension for using any performance enhancing drug
- Not have ever served a ban for use of a performance enhancing drug
- Not have ever been found guilty of a major doping offense
- Not be represented by a coach and/or agent who ever served a ban for use of performance enhancing drugs during his/her own athletic career
- Consent to random drug testing
- Sign an affidavit stating he/she is drug free and understands the Cooper River Bridge Run's drug policy

In addition to the athlete policy, if a coach or agent is known to have represented two or more athletes who have or are currently serving doping suspensions, the Cooper River Bridge Run reserves the right to deny entry to any of their current athletes.
